Harbertson-Londos Contest Expected to Be Hummer; Both Men Complete Training for Friday Night Contest; Clapham and Daviscourt Ready for Their Contest; Alhambra Is the Place

Jack Harbertson and Jim Londos, the two principals in the feature wrestling event of the show to be staged at the Alhambra theatre tomorrow evening under the auspices of the Ogden Livestock show, have completed their training for their contest and both are reported to be in first class condition. Both men have been going through hard workouts during the past week in preparation for the match and are both confident of winning.

Under the contract signed with the Ogden Livestock show the men must wrestle to a finish, best two in three falls. The match will be decided in favor of one of the two men if it lasts until the week small hours it is decided.

Londos is recognized throughout the entire United States as one of the greatest mat men in the game. He has met the best of them, including Stecher, Lewis, Caddock, Sautel, and numerous others, and is rated as one of the leaders in the mat art in America. His ability is known from one end of the United States to the other and he is, from all appearances, a finished product.

Harbertson, on the other hand, has mixed with the best in the middleweight, light-heavy and heavy class, and is confident that he can defeat the Greek champion. Jack completed his training last night at the Pioneer gymnasium and stated today that he was in the best condition of his career.

The referee for the contest has as yet, not been named. It is highly probable, however, that Jack Childs, of Boise, will be the third man in the padded arena. Childs is one of the best wrestling authorities in the western states and if selected, will no doubt, fill the bill.

With reference to the coming match Londos said today: "I am in perfect condition and expect to be returned the winner. I have been working out here for the past ten days and feel confident that I will defeat Harbertson."

WELSH FACES LONG ROAD

How Far Will His Ring "Comeback" Come?

By DEAN SNYDER.

"I'm going to win the lightweight title back." That's what Freddie Welsh said immediately after Benny Leonard knocked him off back in 1917. The little Welshman from Pontypridd established a health farm in Jersey as his training camp. All the ring chieftains have stated his there, but they never took his ambition seriously. They do now.

FIRST CONQUEST. It wasn't much of a triumph for Freddie to boast of. Yet he is satisfied. He used to fight his way back to Leonard, he said after his first conquest.

But such boys as Willie Jackson, Richie Mitchell, Lew Tender and Eddie Fitzsimmons haven't lost any sleep over the 34-year-old ex-champ's reappearance. Before he lifted the crown from Willie Mitchell in 1914, Freddie used to punch his opponents to sleep. He stacked them up when he was trying.

HUMAN FIGHTS. But after he got the toga, his motto was "live and let live." Scores of times he was outpointed, but the no-decision agreement kept his title in hand. As long as he wasn't knocked out he was content.

Welsh has been called a human fighter. To encourage the corners and let 'em make money was the angle from which he played his championship. The knockouts he was capable of delivering were never unleashed because he wanted the other fellow to make money.

Once in a while some chap would get rough with him. Then Freddie showed his stuff.

MONEY GIVEN. Big purses didn't come along when he was carrying the name. He lost money when he took the title away from Ritchie over in London. The jangle of big money is a strong call hard to let pass unheeded. However, the "comeback" boys ever come back far.

Fighting stamina once allowed to go unexpressed goes out forever, usually. So Freddie's first triumph is perhaps but just a "chance" of a hope that is to go untitled.

CONDEMNS ACTS OF OHIO STATE

Wisconsin's Coach Accuses Champions of Insults and Bad Conduct

MADISON, Wis., Jan. 6.—The break in the ten football relations between Wisconsin and Ohio State universities became more acute today with a statement from Coach John R. Richards, of Wisconsin, intimating that he would resign if Ohio State is ever again put on the Wisconsin football schedule.

Richards' statement expressed his "personal disappointment" over failure to arrange a game with Ohio State for 1921, declaring "other Wisconsin men agree with me that we did not get fair dealing."

Richards' charges of unsportsmanlike tactics at the Wisconsin-Ohio State game last fall constitute the main reason of Richards' declaration that "no team I coach will ever play Ohio State."

"Football is only worth while as an intercollegiate sport when mutual regard and sportsmanship prevail. There has often been a disposition on the part of institutions just arriving athletically to consider athletics a standard of excellence in the whole gamut of university duties."

"They indulge in a species of self-adulation and lose sight of many things essential. Visiting coaches are treated to insulting remarks, visiting players are subjected to abuse from the students; the visiting team is lodged in on the side lines by a crowd wearing side line badges while vacant seats are instructed and low beaten; the press likes to ridicule the members of visiting teams, and was factious about their nationality—all of which is personal and has nothing to do with the game. Universities have long since passed it. Wisconsin saw all this at Ohio last fall."

"Football is a fine game, but it is only a game. Wisconsin so regards it and keeps it subordinate to 'required university work' and will allow its team no foolish notions or national aspirations or coast hatching and we could have had the latter."

FREDDIE WELSH

Freddie Welsh, once king of the lightweights, has drawn his first blood in a fresh start to regain his lost crown. He used to knock out his opponents on schedule. M'KAY ARRIVES FOR FRIDAY BOUT

Battle Royal Between Five Colored Boys to Be Laugh Supplier

The Canadian Kid, who will meet Joe McKay in a preliminary to the twelve-round scrap between Gordon McKay and Eddie Daley tomorrow night in the Wasatch club arena.

The fastest twelve-round middleweight scrap promised to Ogden boxing fans for three months is offered tomorrow night in the Wasatch Athletic club arena, when Gordon McKay of Pocatello meets Eddie Daley of Chicago over the long-distance route.

The 148-pound McKay has matched the men to go twelve rounds to provide entertainment for visiting stockmen and at the same time give the local ring followers a good card.

McKay arrived in Ogden yesterday and worked out in the arena during the afternoon before a large crowd of spectators. The Pocatello man proved that he is in excellent shape when he disposed of three sparring partners within a half hour. Although his big sparring partners were worn out, McKay was not even breathing hard.

Eddie Daley will arrive in Ogden this noon from Oregon, where he has been fighting recently. From here he will proceed to Chicago, his home. Daley will work out late this afternoon in the local arena and then will take a layoff until the going rings for tomorrow night. McKay will also work out again this evening and then will put the gloves away until he faces Daley in the ring.

In addition to the big twelve-round scrap, Promoter Downing is arranging some trimmings. He has arranged with five big colored boys to mix in a special battle royal.

The Canadian Kid will try his luck with a big colored lad, Joe Knight, over the four-round route. This event made a hit here last week and the fans are waiting to see him go against a boy with class. Knight has shown speed in training and has a kick.

Lloyd Wyatt, another favorite, will step four rounds with Battling Law, a Los Angeles boxer. This event should prove a whirlwind, for Wyatt always forces the fighting during every minute in the ring.

A four-round curtain raiser will also be on the program. The first going will sound promptly at 8:30 o'clock, Promoter Downing said.

SOUTH CACHE TO MEET OGDEN HIGH

Game Will Be Played Saturday Evening at Ogden High; Skeen Out of Game

The Ogden high school hoopers will tangle with the South Cache high school team Saturday night in the high school gymnasium, according to an announcement made today by Coach Stubby Peterson. South Cache has already defeated Box Elder and Davis high schools by decisive scores and the contest Saturday night will tend to give the fans a chance to compare the style of play used in the two divisions.

Malcolm Watson, mentor at Weber Normal college, will officiate. Ogden high will play South Cache a return game January 15 at Hyrum.

Skeen will not play in the coming contest as he is not eligible. Rogers, Hinchcliffe or McFarland will hold down Skeen's guard.

In the game against the Utah Freshmen last Tuesday night the hoopers showed considerable improvement over their playing in other games and showed that they have a team of exceptional men. Thomas at forward and Knudsen at center played well while Knudsen at center also played to good advantage.

Doxey and Skeen at guards played high grade ball and held the visiting forwards to low scores.

With Skeen should be a hard combination to beat. Skeen is considered one of the best men in the Ogden division of the best men in the state on the local floor during the season.

The Saturday evening contest will start at 7:30.

Coach Peterson is arranging games with out-of-town teams and stated today that the Tigers would meet some of the best teams in the state on the local floor during the season.

Read 'Em and Weep

HYPONOTISM. Johnny Coulton, the Wizard of Logan square.

At least, that is what he is in Paris. In Logan square he is just a better known hand, but in France he is Monsieur Coulton, hypnotist.

French savants (along for high-brows) have discovered that our Johnny Coulton is a hypnotist. He is a other words, a Strongman.

Imagine George Du Maurier coming back to the Rue de Valenciennes and discovering a baldheaded, 165-pound Strongman projecting psychic waves through five-ounce gloves.

As an afterthought we might remark that Johnny has hypnotized various newspaper scribblers over there.

The next lightweight championship fight will be for charity, $60,000 of which will be for a home.

If you ask a modern school boy what the trade winds are he will tell you they are hot breezes which come from a baseball meeting.

When G. Carpentier read the reports of the Dempsey-Brennan fight they must have sounded "somehow like a reprieve."

Flying to Cuba will not be a novelty to John McGraw. Many a time the old Cuba had him up in the air.

SAFETY FIRST. There was a maid in our town. And she was young and fiery. But all the fellows turned her down.

Because she kept a diary. "Willard" remarks his press agent, "was not himself at Toledo." Was he?
